

give bond. Mr. Dorsey is willing to act as your Conservator; he will be under bond; so nobody is going to take anything away from you.

A What you say his name is?
(Mr. Barrick)
Q Dorsey?

A Oh, that is the young one.

Q That's the one you saw yesterday.

A Well, I don't know.

Q Would you rather have me do it.

A Well, I don't know, I would as soon have you as anybody I guess. I would like Cramer Powell, but I think Cramer Powell is getting a little bit old now, don't you, or not? Cramer I think has seen his best days, the way I see it, but I wouldn't come right out and say I asked him to, because I don't think he is in that good a shape any more. I don't know whether I am right or wrong. I don't know whether I am talking right.

THE COURT: I think under this Provision (b) the Court can appoint a guardian ad litem for him, and I think we better appoint Mr. Lambert to answer yes or no, and then I can take this testimony. I will go back to this gentleman (Mr. Millard Eyer)

Q Do you feel Mr. Lawrence A. Dorsey, Jr. would be a proper person to be Conservator for the estate of Mr. Ashbaugh?

A I think so; there is no question about it.

Q You see he is going to be under bond.

A Well, if Roy desires I will come over the same as I always did. Call me at 4 o'clock in the morning, I'll come at 7. I'll do anything for you, but I don't think I could look after you the way you ought to be looked after. I will be over here every
